HAWK HAPPENINGS

Safety is always a priority in Woodward-Granger Schools. Over the years, we have made refinements to ensure our students and staff are safe. Examples would be our single, secure front entrances in our buildings, check-in procedures for volunteers/visitors and the development of protocols to respond to a variety of emergency situations.

This school year, our district will begin training on a new way to handle an active shooter situation called ALICE (Alert, Lockdown, Inform, Counter, Evacuate). The Iowa Legislature passed a new bill, Senate File 2364, which requires all schools to have a plan in place for active shooters and to train school personnel on those plans annually. The ALICE program provides strategies for staff and students on what to do if an armed intruder enters their building or classroom. You will be hearing more about this throughout the spring.

We will begin by training teachers and other school personnel in early spring. In late spring we will pursue student experiences, in which we conduct the state-required drills. Each group of students will be trained in age-appropriate ways. For example, the discussion about what an armed intruder is will be different for first-graders than for high school seniors. At the end of the training, all our students will understand and be better prepared for this type of emergency situation.

By the end of the school year, every person in the district will be ALICE trained and all staff will be certified in the ALICE program. This means that no matter what building, our staff and students will be prepared. Until our training is complete, we will follow our current emergency procedures.

We understand that the thought of an armed intruder is terrifying. This is truly the worst-case scenario, but we believe our district should be ready to take action in an emergency. We do not want our staff or students to be scared; we want them to be prepared.

We encourage you to read through the official ALICE Training Institute website at <https://www.alicetraining.com>. If you have any questions, please contact Matt Adams at 999-8022.

Help Kids Spot Fake News and Decode Media Messages

NEWS & MEDIA LITERACY

We are critical thinkers & creators.

With so much media and information coming at us through the television, phones, social media, and more, it's more important than ever for kids to understand the basics of media literacy. When kids can identify different types of news and media and the methods and meanings behind them, they're on their way to being critical thinkers and smart consumers.

Check out these 5 tips

- 1 Encourage healthy skepticism.
Help them analyze the messages around them -- from toy packaging to news headlines -- and question the purpose of the words and images they see.
- 2 Play "spot the ad."
When you see advertising on TV or on a billboard, ask kids to figure out what the ad is selling. Sometimes it's obvious, and sometimes it's not. Help them explore why certain pictures, sounds, or words are used to sell certain products.
- 3 Explore different sides of a story.
Use real-life examples to help kids understand how people can view the same situation with totally different perspectives. One child might experience a game on the playground as fun, while another might feel like the rules are unfair. When appropriate, tie this example to a news story.
- 4 Discuss fact vs. opinion.
Play around with ideas and decide which are facts and which are opinions. Ask: How tall are you? What's the best food in the world? Do rocks sink or float? Do you like dogs? Point out that both facts and opinions show up in the news, but opinion is usually labeled.
- 5 Choose a variety of sources.
Show kids how you get news and information from different places, and explain how you make your choices. Use words like "credible," "trustworthy," "respected," and "fair." As kids get older, introduce the ideas of bias, satire, and clickbait.

Mr. Ruhland's Class, also known as "The Ru Crew" made various designs of paper airplanes for a science and tech-ed lesson. After creating our aircraft, we tested them and recorded data. We measured how far they flew and how many tricks they did. Each plane got three trials. We used the scientific method to test and record the data. Dawson's plane "Flame Thrower" went the furthest at 45 feet. Nicky's plane "Flame" did 11 twists and loops leading the tricks category. Jairden and Izaya both made unique designs. The snow kept our classmate Brenton away from school so he tested his planes the next school day. He had some really cool designs. We learned about science and aerodynamics while having a great time.

The FCS department is hard at work this semester! We now have 2 classes offering items for sale - Advanced Bakery and Advanced Culinary. Advanced Bakery offered cinnamon rolls for their first round of Take and Bake - we sold 15 dozen rolls! Advanced Culinary is offering 3 meal choices for their first round - Raspberry Croissant Breakfast Casserole, Chicken Bacon Ranch Mac n Cheese, and Antipasto Bake. In these classes, students are responsible for all aspects of running the "business" from developing the product ideas, testing recipes, ordering supplies, making flyers, and filling orders. It's exciting to see the students shine! Advanced Culinary is accepting orders until Feb. 3rd, email Mrs. McCord at melissamccord@wghawks.school to order. Advanced Bakery will be opening orders for Cake Pops to be delivered on Valentine's Day soon - flyers and order forms will be available in the MS/HS offices or by emailing Mrs. McCord.

Fashion Construction is also busy planning - we began the semester by pairing with the Iowa Hub of Animal Rescue Craft Group to make joey pouches for orphaned and injured animals in Australia. Because of the recent wildfires, they estimate that billions of animals have been injured and displaced. We asked for donations of fabric and planned a Community Sewing Night to construct pouches. The Fashion Construction students have spearheaded these efforts.

In middle school, Mae Anderson has been working with a small group of students to repurpose donated bridesmaid dresses. The students are taking them apart and reconstructing new designs with Mae's help. They will showcase these designs in the Fashion Show in May.

2020 District Large Group Speech

On Saturday, January 25, Woodward-Granger hosted district large group speech for IHSSA. Hosting provided a unique opportunity for our community, as we had approximately twenty five different schools here at the same time. Our halls were busy, and our concession stand was overwhelmed, but overall, Woodward-Granger created a spectacular event.

We would like to send a shout out to all who helped make this happen: from those who allowed us to use their classrooms to those who donated to those who came and worked, THANK YOU! This would not have been possible without all of the support we received.

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Fantastic!

YOU ROCK!

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Kiley is one of the sweetest freshmen we have here at WG. She is kind to everyone and always makes sure each student is included in groups.

She helps her peers stay calm in stressful situations, especially as they were preparing for finals. She always dedicates herself to her work, and responds well when encouraged to try something new. She smiles at everyone in the hall and is always helping those in need.

Keep up the good work, Kiley!

KILEY BRANDSFIELD

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Chloe is a positive student that always gives her best effort. She expresses her concerns directly to the teachers, and will correct her peers when they are acting inappropriately. Her preparedness for class and her attention to detail is refreshing. She asks good questions and is open to constructive criticism. She will even propose changes to the timelines in her learning and help other students to see the advantages in working through different tasks at various speeds. It is awesome to see students that help their peers be the best versions of themselves: and Chloe seems to do this often!

CHLOE HOUGE
SOPHOMORE

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Colby has many qualities that make him a perfect fit for student of the month. To say that Colby is a hard worker is an understatement. Even at the end of the semester, he was still asking questions wanting to learn more about the material. He led a strong final presentation with his group and did an excellent job preparing for it. Colby doesn't quit early and is willing to stay after class to gain more information when he needs to. Colby is kind to others, does what is right, and has been seen in the halls trying to stop the negative behavior of others. Great job, Colby!

COLBY TAGUE
JUNIOR

STUDENT OF THE MONTH

Being polite and respectful are some of Reese's best qualities! He always does his best work, always does the right thing, and is quick to volunteer even when it's not necessary. Reese is an all-around great kid and a great role model for all the younger students here at Woodward-Granger! All of Reese's wonderful qualities are sure to make him a great success in his future endeavors!

GRANDWOOD NEWSLETTER

Grandwood will provide functional and transitional learning experiences in a positive and structured environment while advancing student independence.

Grandwood PBIS Feature

The students have been continuing to show their PBIS values in all settings. They are working hard to BE SAFE, BE KIND, and BE RESPONSIBLE. This month, we have really been working on how to be responsible at school, at home, and in the community. The students look forward to earning golden tickets, and using those in the school store. New items are being added, which brings excitement to everyone!

The January PBIS assembly was a great way to see everyone after winter break. Students were recognized for their positive behaviors, and the students of the month were highlighted as well. A lot of fun was had!

Continue to ask your children about their PBIS values and school, and come up with ways to BE SAFE at home and out in the community!

Counselor Corner

We are starting out the new year with talking about responsibility. Responsibility is one of the three Grandwood's PBIS Values. In class discussion and completion of worksheets about what responsibility is, where we have responsibilities and why it is important that took place this month. Responsibility is a big word and can mean many things.

At home discussion:

- How are we responsible with our things?
- Showing you are responsible through your actions - share examples
- Being responsible is doing what you said you would - why is this important?

Be on the lookout for information about our monthly topics and information from our district-wide initiative on bullying/harassment.

Feel free to contact me if you ever have any questions or concerns.

Passion Project

One of our Passion Project groups is designing a sensory wall at Grandwood. A Passion Project is a student led, student designed project students pick to help out or learn more about.

Grandwood's gross motor room serves as a way for students to use their senses and be active in an appropriate setting. This room has different textured items, a light activity board, and an interactive projected activity. We are missing colors and textures on the walls. Middle school students graciously accepted the project to help us brighten our gross motor room by decorating the walls and ceiling! This group of students has done a nice job communicating with Grandwood staff to set up meetings, communicate about the desired outcome, and plan the project! Grandwood is excited to see how this all comes together!

How to keep your heart healthy

Here's how you can put 5-2-1-0 into action this month:

CELEBRATE HEART MONTH

During National Heart Health Month in February, help kids understand how eating better and moving more can contribute to a healthy heart. 5-2-1-0 Healthy Choices Count! can help you live a healthy life!

RESOURCES:

- Heart Health Lessons for Teachers (via the American Heart Association)
- Heart Healthy Lesson Plans \(K-7\) (via the Heart & Stroke Foundation)

TIP FOR TEACHERS: Don't have time to teach about heart health? Incorporate information into other core subjects like Math, Language Arts and Science.

— ActionForHealthyKids.org

HEART HEALTHY FOOD:

Leafy greens and berries are both hearty-healthy foods that can help you reach your goal of 5 fruits and veggies every day! Try these recipes for Strawberry Banana Parfait and Vegetable Roll-up (with spinach), both available in the new 5-2-1-0 Recipe Book!

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY FUN:

Physical activity doesn't have to be limited to just recess or P.E. Try incorporating some of these classroom "brain breaks" via the Iowa Department of Education. Also, consider starting a before- or after-school walking club in the gym for students and/or staff.

The 5-2-1-0 Feature is brought to you by:
